

MOOGLE'S CAVE

“A FINAL FANTASY fan who likes to talk about a lot of things”

Moogles' Cave is a Brazilian channel and website that, despite the greater focus on content about the FINAL FANTASY series, also talks about games in general, always trying to help new players, bring nostalgia to veterans and awaken the curiosity of those to come.

With more informal and humorous content, we try to bring the world of games to our dear “moogles” (as we call our followers) through gameplays, news, analyses, media coverage, guides and much more, through the following formats: recorded videos and livestreams on the channel or written on our website.

Initially named Mognet Central, both channel and website began in 2013, however, it was by the end of 2017 that all social media accounts underwent a name change to Moogles' Cave and also went through a design overhaul to better welcome our moogles.

The channels on YouTube and Twitch are presented by Irianne Sedky (mostly known as Yu Kisaragi), though the website relies on other columnists and accepts content contributions from fans.
